The Honorable Lindsey Graham                      The Honorable Dianne Feinstein
Chairman                                          Ranking Member Committee on the Judiciary                       Committee on the Judiciary
U.S. Senate                                      U.S. Senate
Washington, D.C. 20510                           Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear Chairman Graham and Ranking Member Feinstein:

I am joined by more than 1,500 justice-seekers from across the United States calling for the immediate release of incarcerated and detained individuals at risk of severe disease and death due to COVID-19 infection in response to the COVID-19 pandemic. All people, including those involved in the justice system, deserve to live with dignity and without needless threat to their health and their lives.

Our sacred text in Isaiah 61:1 instructs us to “bring good news to the afflicted, to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and release to the prisoners.” All people, including those involved in the justice system, deserve to live with dignity and without needless threat to their health.

People in jails, prisons, and detention facilities are at greater risk than the general population of becoming ill and dying from the coronavirus. Now, the situation has become dire. As of July 7, 2020, at least 57,019 people in prisons across our country had tested positive for coronavirus, and 650 inmates had died of the illness (A State-by-State Look at Coronavirus in Prisons, The Marshall Project). That’s nearly a 300% increase from April when we began collecting signatures for this letter. The Bureau of Prisons meanwhile reported that as of July 6, more than 8,700 inmates in federal prisons had tested positive (COVID-19 Coronavirus, Federal Bureau of Prisons). Detention centers have also become hotspots for COVID-19, with at least 2,700 positive cases reported nationwide according to ICE (ICE Guidance on COVID-19, ICE). These figures are constantly in flux, and in all likelihood undercount the true number of cases.

The COVID-19 pandemic spotlights an urgent opportunity to reform our overcrowded prison and immigration detention facilities. Although the U.S. has less than 5% of the world’s population, we have approximately 21% of the world’s prisoners and lead the world in the number of individuals incarcerated, with nearly 2.2 million people held in state and federal prisons and local jails. Continuing our current levels of mass incarceration is not a sustainable path forward.

COVID-19 has shown us that every person’s wellness depends on the health of everyone else. To protect the lives of those who are incarcerated, please include these four priorities in the next coronavirus package:

1. Release Vulnerable Federal Inmates and Detainees
   Immediately take steps to reduce the incarcerated and detained population by calling on the U.S. Bureau of Prisons, the U.S. Marshal Service, and U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement to adopt compassionate release for all prisoners and detainees at higher risk of infection due to age, underlying health conditions, and those who pose no significant risk to society or have sentences ending in 12 months or less. Other eligible returning citizens should be released into community supervision, and immigrants in detention should be released on humanitarian parole. In addition, for the duration of the coronavirus pandemic, institute a ban on pre-trial detention, unless there is clear evidence of flight risk or substantial threat of bodily harm.

2. Provide Additional Funding for Health Care and Facility Improvements
Increase general funding for penal institution hospitals and infirmaries as well as for infrastructure modifications to facilitate quarantining and social distancing procedures beyond solitary confinement. Eliminate costs for inmate health care by providing funds for COVID-19 mass testing and treatment, co-pays, and other related healthcare needs for those who remain confined. Ensure that soap and other necessary hygiene products are provided free of charge, meeting the Center for Disease Control and Prevention’s recommendations for hand-washing. Additionally, Make telephone calls and video-conferencing available free of charge. Staying connected, in this social-distancing reality, demands basic empathy for those who have limited ability to talk with friends and family.

3. Increase Access to Safety Net Programs
Provide immediate access to safety net benefits for returning citizens by lifting the ban on housing assistance, SNAP, Medicaid, and TANF, as well as other programs, providing returning citizens with the resources they need to protect and care for themselves and the public.

4. Grant Economic Relief to Currently Incarcerated and Returned Citizens
Allow returned citizens who are small business owners to be eligible for federal grant and loan programs designed to spur economic relief and stave off job loss, such as the Economic Injury Disaster Loan programs administered by the Small Business Administration. Additionally, provide economic relief, such as cash assistance, to currently incarcerated individuals, as many state facilities are using prison laborers to make COVID-19 hygiene products and Protective Personal Equipment during the pandemic.

For the sake of those imprisoned and for the safety of the general public, we urge you to prioritize the decarceration of as many of these institutions and detention centers as possible, as soon as possible. Chapter 25 of the Gospel of Matthew describes our responsibility to our fellow humans, including those who are incarcerated, in this way, “When I was hungry, you fed me, when I was homeless, you sheltered me, when I was imprisoned, you visited me.” We must recognize and honor the rights and dignity of every member of our human family in the midst of this crisis.

Sincerely,
